

REMARKS

It is apparently conceded that Astiz does not teach automatically pausing the video playback when other information is being accessed by selecting a location on a frame. To this end, Youden is cited. But Youden has nothing to do with implementing a pause when other information is accessed during the playback of video information. In Youden, there is no automatic pausing of the video playback when other information is accessed by selecting a location on the frame. Therefore, reconsideration of the rejection is respectfully requested.

Respectfully submitted,
